

Statement Letter

Writing about myself as a prospective Master of International Management (MSc) candidate at the esteemed Fulda University of Applied Sciences excites me. I am Aathira, Santhosh from India. Having finished my schooling in English, my academic path has been one of inquiry mixed with diligence. My educational background consists in a Bachelor of Commerce from Bangalore University, from which I graduated with an outstanding 8.78 CGPA. I have always been motivated to learn and specialize further; this program at Fulda marks the next stage towards my aim.

After graduating in October 2023 from Bangalore University, Bangalore, India, with a CGPA of 8.78—equivalent to a German grade of 1.6—I finished my Bachelor of Commerce. Before, I finished my 12th grade in April 2019 from the Department of Pre-University Education, Government of Karnataka, and India. In June 2017, my ten-grade result was an 8.8 CGPA (German Grade: 1.5). After passing the IELTS in February 2024 with a 6.5, which falls under B2 level, Showcasing my English, my individual scores were Listening 7.0, Reading 6.0, Writing 6.5, and Speaking 6.0. Reflecting my commitment to learning new languages and cultures, I also finished the Goethe Zertifikat A1 in June 2024 with an 80/100 total.

Apart from my intellectual success, I have acquired useful work experience. Since July 2024, Capgemini Technology Services India Limited, India, has had me working as a Process Associate. Among my duties are data management, process execution and optimization, and quality assurance. Previously, from February 2023 to September 2023, I worked as a Procurement Professional at Alchemy Techsol India Pvt. LTD., Bangalore. There I handled vendor data maintenance and purchase order changes. These positions have given me a strong basis in process optimization and data management. Along with other extracurricular activities, which have expanded my viewpoint and skill set, I finished a German language A1 course from Speakeng India and the Employability Skill Development Program run by Mahindra Pride Classroom. I also helped out at HSR Layout and MG Palya during the National Pulse Polio Program. Several certifications, like SAP FICO, have also helped me to deepen my knowledge and abilities.

For a number of reasons, the International Management (MSc) degree at Fulda University of Applied Sciences really appeals to me. The global character of company and the challenges of running several teams and marketplaces always captivate me. My life had a major turning point when I was interning Alchemy Techsol and saw the possibilities and difficulties of worldwide procurement. This encounter inspired me to seek creative answers for operations in foreign companies. Specifically fascinating to me are modules like "Global Business Strategy" and "Cross-Cultural Management". These classes will, in my opinion, equip me with a thorough awareness of global market dynamics and the tools to properly run diverse teams. The program's emphasis on interpersonal skills as well as technical understanding exactly matches my career goals.

My master's degree would be best pursued at Fulda University of Applied Sciences. Modern facilities, vibrant academic environment, and dedication to research and innovation define the university. Having more than 9,000 students, Fulda presents a dynamic and varied community. The university's research centers give plenty of chances for practical experience; the faculty members are authorities in their domains. International students find Fulda appealing because of its rich cultural legacy and robust employment market as well as its central German location. Companies in the area, like Daimler and Bosch, are well-known for recruiting graduates of the International Management program, providing first-rate professional prospects.

Germany is where I want to study since the level of education here is unmatched. Since the educational system in Germany is significantly better than in other countries, I want to remain there. Germany's varied and rich culture appeals to me since it presents a special fusion of old and modernism. I wish to interact with the neighbourhood, tour historical landmarks, and take in the active student life. Studying in Germany will help me to develop personally, improve my professional ability, and offer a worldwide viewpoint. German culture, which is renowned for its efficiency, inventiveness, and quality emphasis, is one which I wish to really absorb. My horizons will surely widen and I will be ready for a successful profession thanks to this cultural awareness.

After completing the International Management program, I hope to be in positions such Marketing Manager, Global Supply Chain Analyst, or International Business Manager. I want to help to create plans that improve worldwide corporate operations and promote cross-cultural communication. There is a great need for qualified experts in these domains, hence I think the Fulda program will provide me the required skills to reach my professional objectives. Want to work, where there are lots of chances for professional development in foreign business, especially interests me.

At last, I am sure that my academic background, work experience, and love of international management qualify me for the Master of degree at Fulda University of Applied Sciences. It excites me to learn from eminent faculty members and help university research efforts. The chance to work towards my professional goals and be part of Fulda University excites me.

I value that you are giving some thought on my application.

Sincerely,
Aathira, Santhosh
